

LIFESTYLE HOME LOAN*: FEES AND IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Closing Costs – Buyer/Seller Responsibilities

The seller can pay for some of the buyer's fees, including home warranties, inspections, transfer tax, etc. title must verify that the seller-paid fees are reasonable and customary for that subject market area.

Allowable Fees

- Costs associated with the Lifestyle Home Loan* must be paid by buyer taxes and HOA fees must be prorated
- There is no interim interest or escrow pad allowed. There are no impounds seller and buyer can split the escrow costs
- Seller can pay the transactions costs (e.g., transfer tax, real estate commissions, title search, etc.), which are typically paid by the seller in a stable market
- Sellers can now pay for the home warranty
- Sellers can also pay for owner's title policy (not lender's policy) if the title company confirms that is a customary fee paid for by the seller in the subject market area

Seller Concessions

Seller concessions up to 6% of the purchase price are now allowed with the Lifestyle Home Loan* to assist buyers with their purchase. This allocation can cover a range of expenses including origination fees, closing costs (such as credit reports and appraisals), prepaid items, and the initial payment for Mortgage Insurance Premium (MIP).

Certificate of Occupancy

The application can be signed and submitted prior to the issuance of the CO.

Important Information

- FHA does not allow for 90-day flipping on a Lifestyle Home Loan*
- Personal property is not allowed to convey in the purchase transaction unless the items are appliances (fridge, stove, permanently affixed microwave, dishwasher, washing machine, clothes dryer) and items that are confirmed by appraiser or listing agent as permanently affixed and thus removal would cause damage. If personal property (not appliances or permanently affixed items) must convey through the sale, then we will require a 3rd party valuation and a fully executed addendum to the purchase contract that reduces the purchase price by the confirmed 3rd party valuation amount

*The Lifestyle Home Loan is a Home Equity Conversion Mortgage for Purchase.

Call Today For More Information

Other Tips

- The FHA Amendatory Clause and Real Estate Cert must be executed by all parties prior to the note date
- Financing should reference "FHA/HECM"
- The borrower should not use a credit card or any other form of borrowed funds for the EMD
- Transfer taxes are based on the face value of the deed (1.5 x max claim amount)
- The Lifestyle Home Loan* does not abide by TRID rules, therefore a closing disclosure is not acceptable for Lifestyle Home Loan* transactions. A HUD-1 must be provided at closing for all Lifestyle Home Loan* / HECM loans

Docs

- When loan documents are ordered, lender's instructions will be sent to signing agent. The HUD will need to be sent back to the doc dept. for approval. Once they have approved your HUD and released docs, NO fees can change at funding without creating a re-draw
- Loan documents are date sensitive and must be signed on the date printed on the docs. If for some reason the signing does not take place, new documents will have to be requested
- Purchase contracts where the seller is a builder or entity must provide documentation to show the signors on the contract have authorization to act on behalf of that builder or entity

Wet Purchase State:

- All closing funds must be received by Escrow prior to release of loan documents
- Wire instructions must be provided at time of docs
- Closing appointment preferred to be set for afternoon signings

*The Lifestyle Home Loan is a Home Equity Conversion Mortgage for Purchase.

Call Today For More Information

